Advent Season Approaches

The time of Advent is fast approaching. The Advent and Christmas season for parents often means a super busy, or silly season of non-stop sorting, preparing, making and organising.

Wanting to give whānau a small moment of peace during the hurry - we offer an evening where there is the opportunity to enter into the mood of Advent, contemplate what this festival experience offers the human soul and create something special to take home.

We invite parents to come and join us on Thursday 30 November in the evening.

During this evening the themes of Advent will be explored, along with a dedicated time for creating an item for the home Advent table.

This evening will be hosted by Taikura, with guest presenter - artistic therapist Margaret-Mary Farr. Maggie will explore the theme of Advent with us - paying special attention to the archetype of the Madonna.

We look forward to your company as we enjoy a quiet moment of contemplation, a warm drink and create something for our festival table.

He maimai aroha!

E te whānau whānui o Taikura,

Last week, it was with great sadness that we farewelled our school kaumātua – Valentine Wirihana Maioha. The service held for Val in our school hall, saw many travel from far and wide to pay homage to a man who carried te ao Māori and Anthroposophy in his daily life, and throughout the time of his journey in our kura. I thought it would be good to share an article that Val wrote about how Te reo Māori me ōna tikanga was planted in our kura. As one of the Matriarchs of our kura stated, "Val brought his world to our school – te ao Māori, at a time when it wasn't popular or an accepted thing to teach!"

Te Reo Māori in our School - by Val Maioha

Was there any? Were there any? W...e...ll, on the first count, No"...On the second...apart from Tanja Maioha, Lynette Paap and Michael Ford...not significantly.

So let me tell you a story about the birth of Māori in our school:

The new school year was soon to begin. Class teachers Kathy Armstrong and Jo Mackenzie approached me for assistance with a project they were considering. It was a re-enactment of the signing of the Treaty of Waitangi in which every child in the school would be involved. (Given today's school roll, it would be a logistical nightmare, but it was easily done back in 1972.) They also asked whether or not their proposal would be in violation of the Kawa, Tapu and Mana of the local iwi...Ngāti Kahungunu. Being a member of the Ngāpuhi confederation of the Northland tribes and having been in the Hawke's Bay only one year at the time, I suggested we seek the advice of an old friend, Canon Sam Rangiihu, Anglican minister for the Māori pastorate of Waipatu-Moteo, who duly blessed the initiative and thereby...planted a seed.

The signing of the Treaty took place on the lawn in front of the Boarding House and was entered into with due reverence by both Māori chieftain and Pākehā settler alike, although bystanders found it very difficult to tell one from the other. The outstanding success of this brilliant extravaganza led to an invitation from Kathy to teach her class some Māori songs. At the time, Carina and I were employed as House Parents in the Hōhepa Homes at Clive and the only time available for such an undertaking was on our "day off" which was fine by me. Before long, the one class had become two, when Jo asked that her class be included and in the twinkling of an eye, the two had suddenly become four, with further expansion limited only by a lack of space in what at the time was the biggest room in the school...Class 7, next to the hall.

Success breeds success (ancient Māori proverb)...and in this instance, led to further negotiations with class teacher, Fred Westrupp, who together with his wife Jocelyn, ran the Boarding establishment. The discussion led to the birth of a Saturday evening Kapa Haka, principally for boarders, who had little if anything constructive to engage them, on Saturday evenings in particular. Before long, "day pupils" were joining the activity and I was being stretched. My limited repertoire of waiata-a-ringa and lack of expertise (none at all actually) with poi led me in 1974 to appeal to Nancy Butler, acting principal for Hukarere Girls on Saturday evenings, things were looking good.

Towards the end of 1974, it was decided that we should showcase our newly acquired talents with a concert in which we would provide the first-half programme and Hukarere the second. Thanks entirely to the immeasurable philanthropy and generosity of Mr John Nimon of Havelock North, the entire Hukarere Kapa Haka group was delivered to our doorstep for a memorable first ever Māori Concert in our school. The whole evening was a memory I treasured for many years. It signalled the hope that the seed which had been planted would continue to flourish and grow.

Ever in the background throughout these years of the 1970's was the benign presence of Canon Sam Rangiihu. He had become intrigued by what he saw as the dynamic vitality of the Steiner Community – Hōhepa Homes, Biodynamic Society, Weleda and of course our school – and was taking every opportunity to learn more about our underlying philosophy. Hans and Ineke van Florenstein Mulder, Kathy Armstrong, Jo McKenzie and Jan Brooking made up a group of teachers who were eminently instrumental in generating the interest in and introduction of Tikanga Māori into our school. Together we attended the Tuesday evening classes in Tikanga Māori run by Canon Sam, as he was affectionately known, at Kohupatiki Marae, and thus automatically became members of a group as Te-Whānau-a-Hine-Ahu-One (the family of Hine-Ahu-One), who in Māori mythology was the first woman, "the maiden formed from the earth" by Tāne-nui-a-rangi, God of Man as we know him. Pupils past and present, who have experienced the Marae Week at Kohupatiki, will remember the significance of those two names. Tāne-nui-a-rangi is the Wharenui or Meeting House and Hine-Ahu-One is the Wharekai or Dining Hall.

During my years as Class Teacher (1981-86), apart from teaching my own class, I provided Tikanga Māori lessons wherever they could be fitted into my schedule. But the bulk of this in recent times was carried by John Robin in the eleven years from 1987-97. John loved his years in our school and as a token of his appreciation left the beautiful Taonga which stands in the garden beneath the wide-spreading Pepper Tree in the Lower School courtyard: Te Whaea-O-Te-Matauranga, Mother of Esoteric Knowledge and Wisdom. Ngā manaakitanga o te Runga Rawa ki a koe, John, me ngā mihi aroha hoki.

In conclusion, I would like to return to my starting point (another ancient practice). Canon Sam, having tested the waters for several years, finally took the plunge and came into our school as Kaumātua (elder statesman) and Teacher of Tikanga Māori. Sadly he passed away shortly after. His immense Mana was powerfully illustrated by the teeming multitudes, both Māori and Pākehā, who attended his Tangihanga. His passing was a sad loss for the community of our school, but...yet another seed has been sown. Takoto mai i runga i te rangimārie!

E te pou whirinaki
i whakatō te kākano o Te Reo me ōna tikanga
kia puāwai i roto i Taikura
Aue te mamae o te ngākau, te hotuhotu a te whatumanawa
mō te wehenga o tēnei taonga tō tātou rangatira ki te pō!
Moe mai ra e Val
i roto i tō moenga roa.
Haere ki Hawaiiki nui, Hawaiiki roa, ki Hawaiiki pamamao te huinga o ngā wairua o te pō, moe mai ra!

What are Special Character Donations?

There has been confusion over the years about what a donation is! We know that Special Character donations are vital in funding our Waldorf Curriculum. This includes our special character staffing such as Eurythmy, Extra lesson, Handwork and Woodwork to name a few.

Special Character Donations are:

- vital in the delivery of curriculum for your children
- set by the Board of Proprietors every year
- used to cover Waldorf curriculum costs
- allowable for tax donation rebates of 33%
- able to be paid by payroll giving or regular direct credit
- help fund non-integrated building costs

Attendance Dues Are:

- set by the Ministry of Education
- to cover the cost of mortgages, insurance and maintenance costs of integrated buildings
- a compulsory fee
- required to be paid, non-payment can result in un-enrolment

What Does Integrated Mean?

We talk a lot about integration at School Board and Ministry of Education level, but not everyone understands what this means. Back in 1991 Taikura changed from being a fully private school to an integrated school. When the school was private, parents funded the entire cost of the education at Taikura, that included all teaching staff.

Becoming integrated meant that the Ministry of Education would make Taikura a state integrated school. The Ministry would fund Taikura for their role as an equivalent state school but allowing our special curriculum to remain that would be funded by parents. We are funded the same as another state school but all our additional Waldorf curriculum staffing and costs are funded by donations that parents pay to the Proprietors.

The other difference is that the Ministry of Education do not own our school buildings, the buildings are owned by the Proprietors Trust. As mentioned above in attendance dues, the Proprietors are responsible for mortgages, insurances and maintenance on all school buildings.

In Summary Integration Means:

- Ministry of Education funds staffing to the level of a comparable state school
- Waldorf curriculum costs are funded by parent donations
- Proprietors own and are responsible for the costs related to all school buildings
